THE MONITOR

Will stay connected when others:

- Explain or relay information in a step-by-step process
- Are structured and organized in their approach to projects
- Respect the Monitor's position
- Ask logical and rational questions
- Give the Monitors all the facts before being required to make a decision
- Give the Monitor time to spend in reflection

Tends to disconnect when others:

- Present too many options
- Gloss over important details
- Don't recognize the Monitor's knowledge of the subject
- Push the Monitor into unrealistic deadlines
- Don't stick to the topic and wonder off into unrelated subjects
- Aren't coherent, logical, and rational

What Monitors like people to know about themselves:

- They like to work out all the details before going into action
- They get really excited about creating the process
- They work best by themselves in a quiet area
- They are slow paced, deliberate, quite, and self-controlled

What Monitors don't recognize or like to admit in themselves:

- They will get very defensive when someone challenges them
- They sometimes have a difficult time relating to people who have less knowledge than themselves
- They quickly become uncomfortable in large crowds

Some things Monitors want others to see in themselves:

- Who I am: They do the right thing at the right time
- Purpose: They strive for perfection in everything they do
- Value to the organization: Meets goals, is dependable, realistic, and committed
- Under stress becomes: Starts to split hairs
- Worries about: Change, when not needed and not being appreciated
- Would be more successful by: Better people skills, more relaxed, being more flexible

Things you rarely observe Monitors doing:

- Being the life of the party
- Leave on vacation without knowing all the details of the trip
- Serving as Master of Ceremonies at the company picnic

How to be in touch with Monitors:

- Appreciate them for being detailed
- Value their education and knowledge
- "Engaging mind before engaging mouth"
- Don't force them to build really close relationships
- Honor their independence

Those who really understand Monitors say:

- "You never know what they are thinking, but what ever it is, it will be brilliant."
- "If you ask them about a subject, they have probably researched the topic."
- "They are rather mild mannered and absorbed in their thoughts."
